

MAKERS GOTTA MAKE

As the founder and owner of ADX, I have had the good fortune to be at the helm of an extraordinary experiment in urban life. Portland is at the forefront of a New American Manufacturing Revolution, and ADX has been an important catalyst in shaping the handcrafted goods movement. I am constantly asked-by Portlanders, non-Portlanders, politicians, non-profits, and other creatives who want to start similar movements in their own cities—what this creative renaissance looks like. This book is the answer. —Kelley Roy, founder of ADX Portland
